AMANDA RISHWORTH MP COUNT DOWN TO THE KINGSTON 2020 SUMMIT

Member for Kingston, Amanda Rishworth today welcomed the enthusiastic community response to the Kingston 2020 Summit, to be held this Sunday 6 April at Old Reynella Neighbourhood Centre from 10am - 12noon.

The Summit will be co-chaired by Richard Harris, South Australian Film Corporation CEO.

"I look forward to co-chairing the Kingston Summit with the Richard Harris. Richard's extensive experience in the film industry will be a great asset to the summit" Ms Rishworth said.

Amanda said a cross-section of the Southern Adelaide community had registered their interest in attending the local summit this weekend.

"I've received a great response from the Southern Adelaide community – it just shows again how passionate this community is about building a modern Australia for the next generation," Ms Rishworth said.

"During the election campaign, I spoke to so many people with good ideas for improving our country, both at a local and national level.

"The Kingston summit is a great opportunity for those ideas to be recorded and formally submitted to the national Australia 2020 summit."

Amanda said those registered to attend the event cover a broad cross-section of the community.

"Parents, carers, sportspeople, students, community organisations and local government representatives have all registered to attend the Kingston 2020 Summit. Ms Rishworth said.

"These people will bring a diverse mix of skills and creativity to the table for our discussions on Sunday.

"Any other interested parties who would like to join are more than welcome."

The local summit will discuss the same ten key areas as Australia 2020 – the economy, the nation's infrastructure, education, skills and training, our environment, our farmers, healthcare, indigenous Australians, the arts, national security, improving the system of government and strengthening our communities.

Many local schools in Kingston have held their own 2020 summit or will be holding one over the coming week.

All ideas from the Kingston summit will be formally submitted to the national summit Australia 2020.

Ideas from the School Summits will be forward to the National Youth 2020 Summit
